“ Uncle Joe you will be missed. You reminded me so much of grandpa Mack when you aggravated us. You always made us laugh. My most memorable moment was when you took Brenda and I to a watermelon patch to get some watermelons when we were small. I will miss your 6am calls on the weekend just to talk. I can still hear you calling and asking for Uncle Jason. I appreciate your talks with Ryan. Miss you a lot and love you!

“i remember back when i was in the 10th or 11th grade . it was good ole semester test time at school. Dad , grandma and grandpa were supposed to pick me up from school. I was excited and watching the clock. I just hurried up and buzzed through my world history test and failed of course. Mrs. Langley, my teacher. was trying to talk to me to let me know i needed that grade to pass, I was really hearing none of this. so, i got outside to the truck, and daddy said are you finished? i said yeah. he said how did you do, oh, i failed it. he made me go right back in and he went with me and made me redo my whole test over. i did however pass. Mrs. Langley got the biggest laugh out of that.

“I remember Uncle Joe coming to visit, and every time he would bring us chicken from Kentucky Fried Chicken... but Uncle Joe and I would be the only ones to eat the spicy stuff... and our long conversations on the phone. Rest in peace Uncle Joe. Gone but never forgotten. Love you and you will forever be in our hearts

“ I just thought of another time when Melba and I was going to Clover Bend School and it came a big rain, The bus flooded out on the gravel road, right in the middle of the water. It wasn't long till Joe and Carl pulled up in front of us and stopped at the edge of the water. Joe waded through the water and carried Melba and I. When we didn't show up at home on time they came looking for us. Gotta love my brothers and sister.

“ I have lots of memories of Joe. He taught me to read & write before I went to school. Due to his teaching I was in a reading class by myself because the other students couldn't read. As we grew up I knew if I needed him all it would take was a phone call. Wherever he was he would come if necessary. It's nice to know someone is always there for you. I miss him already and I know different things will bring back his memory. The only consolation is I know I will see him again one day.
