“ As I looked through the obituaries, I saw your Miss Viola. I recently lost my mother of 96 years, and Viola's age, at 93, so reminded me of her. There were some Bible verses shared with me at the time of my mother's death, which I found comforting. I would like to share a couple of them with you, in the hope that they will also bring you comfort and hope. I was shown Revelation 21:3,4, showing that the time will come when there will no longer be death, nor any of the sadnesses that preceed it, on this earth. I was then reminded of God's original purpose for man, from the Garden of Eden, was for humans to live on the earth forever, in good health and peace. The verses in Revelation only describe a fulfillment of that purpose. And then, there is Psalm 37:9-11 and 29, which show us that all wicked will be removed from the earth, and only the righteous will remain, and that they can live here forever. So, I so much look forward to the fulfillment of Jesus words, when he promised a resurrection of those in the grave, when I can see my mother again. You, too, can look forward, by Jesus' own words, to welcoming Viola back also. I hope you find comfort in these promises. I send my condolences to each and all. Ellie
