“ When I was little, Pepa used to sit me on his lap when he received the Sunday paper and show me the toy ads in the Walmart or Target ads. He would explain to me that the toy is at the store at this price. He would then scoop me up, put me in the car and take me to whichever store the toy was at that day. He would show me the ad, then point at the toy and explain to me how it was marked down. He would then grab the toy and take it to the checkout counter and I would take it home. Pepa spoiled me without a doubt. So many memories such as this thanks to my Pepa and his desire to do kind, selfless things for those around him. To say that he will be missed is an understatement. The world feels different, emptier somehow without the shuffling of Pepa in his house shoes and him talking to his cat, Sugar.
